

MARÍA FERNANDA PALLARES COLOMAR

Montevideo, 1970

I am graduated from the National School of Fine Arts and the Faculty of Communication Sciences (both from the University of the Republic). From 2001 to 2007 I lived in Brazil where I completed a master's degree and a doctorate in Philosophy at the Pontifical Catholic University of Rio de Janeiro, returning to Montevideo to work as a teacher at the Institute of Philosophy of the Faculty of Humanities and Educational Sciences until 2023.

I attended art workshops in Uruguay and abroad. In 2018 I began making printmaking matrices with photopolymers with Graciela Buratti in Buenos Aires, becoming interested shortly after in photogravure work with copper plates. In 2020 I took a heliogravure workshop (Talbot-Klíč technique) with Carles Mitjà in Estada.

My current artistic practice focuses on printmaking and photography, although not exclusively.
